

MILITARY ESCORTE REVIEW

The administration of Protective Services in the Military Forces better known as escorts is a Special Counterintelligence Operation assigned to Special Forces, Intelligence and Military Police Units. In Colombia it was the responsibility of Department E2 and later of DINTE

After the bloody takeover of the Palace of Justice by the M19 in 1985 with the patronage of the extraditable and the attack against General Samudio, the army organized the AFEAU with the support of the United States government. The DAS advised the Military Forces and Police on the management of the bodyguards and instructed the personnel assigned to such a mission at the Santander General School, based on the doctrine of the Department of State, Diplomatic Service and ICITAP of the United States and institutional experience. The General Command issued directive 089 of 87 to regulate the Military Escorts.

During my stay at the BAPOM13 in 1992, due to the events in the cathedral, I proposed to the command of the Military Police School Battalion No. 13 to include in the curriculum of the courses the protection of dignitaries because it is a typical mission of the specialty, which was accepted. The Directorate of Instruction and Training DIE issued a Plan of Instruction and Training PIE for escorts

20TH MILITARY INTELLIGENCE BRIGADE PLAN 020

Later in 1995, the 20th Brigade issued the 012 plan for Training of Military Escorts of the Ministry of Defense, General Command and Force Commands and later it was continued directly or through ESICI or BAPOM13
